Joshua Karton, Communication Arts, Santa Monica, California, specializes in teaching litigators how to apply the personal communication skills and techniques of theatre/film/television to the art of trial advocacy.

He serves on the faculties and develops curriculum for AAJ's Ultimate Course, the Gerry Spence Trial Lawyer's College, NITA, the JAG Corps, ABA, NACDL, National Criminal Defense College, Loyola and California Western Schools of Law, numerous state t.l.a.'s and criminal defense associations, as well as maintaining a professional practice of individual case consultation and witness preparation. His thirty years of work in this field culminated in his preparation of the winning presentation to the United States Supreme Court in Hamdan v Rumsfeld.

The 2-day workshop, "APPEARING, LIVE, IN THIS COURTROOM!"™, is an intensive investigation into what turns presentation into persuasion. Class size is limited to allow each participating lawyer in-depth one-on-one training in a non-lecture, laboratory of courtroom communication. Attendees will focus on skills and techniques in areas such as:

- 1) achieving personal, one-to-one connection with jurors;
- 2) discovering story structure/storytelling strategies;
- 3) expanding vocal range, inflection, expressiveness;
- 4) invisibly directing where judge and/or jurors look;
- 5) transforming stage fright into stage presence, as well as responding to the individual lawyer's case issues and personal style

"Have you ever noticed that when you tell friends or colleagues about a case, they immediately believe you and believe your client's story? Have you ever noticed that you do not have that same effect on jurors? Why is that? There can be many reasons, but one is the way the story is told. When we speak to friends and colleagues we speak as ourselves, speaking to friends. When we speak to jurors we speak to them like a robot talking to strangers. Our lawyer brains take over and we leave everything individual, unique and real about ourselves back at counsel table. I don't know how he does it, but somehow Joshua Karton is able to figure out a way to unlock the real person battling to escape the lawyering robot, so that he/she can stand before the jury as a real person speaking truth to real people." Sam McGee - Charlotte North Carolina Lawyer

"I have had the chance to work with Joshua at Western Trial Advocacy Institute, Trial Lawyers College and at private trainings like the one being offered here. I have always learned new and amazing things each time. At the end of my career I know that the training's I have had with Joshua will be considered gifts I gave myself but also a gifts I gave to all of my clients."
Rhidian D.W. Orr -- Denver Lawyer
